Salon defends contentious ad

The owner of a local salon is defending an advertisement some say glamorizes domestic violence.

Images from Fluid Hair, located near Whyte Avenue, stirred up social media sites yesterday after one was posted on the blog of a New York advertising copywriter.

It shows a woman with blonde hair and a black eye sitting on a couch. A man stands behind her holding jewelry.

The words read: "Look good in all you do."

"It struck me as completely obscene," said Michelle Meagher, U of A women's studies professor. "It glamorizes it for the sake of hair products."

Salon owner Sarah Cameron said the series of six photos was released more than one year ago. "We thought 'let's put out a really, really strong, kind of out there campaign,'" she said. "Why does everything tailor to be so sensitive now?"

She said other companies and designers have made similar ads, and that the same one in New York wouldn't have created a stir.

"Because we're a small business, we're going to get more backlash," she said.

Meagher said using the image

Take a look

► Salon owner Sarah Cameron said the original six photos were taken by Montreal photographer Neil Mota, and that she wants to continue the series.

► Some of the others include a woman covered in oil, a woman oogled by an elderly man, a woman implied to be a prostitute, and a woman pulling another woman's body out of herse.

► The advertisements have been online at fluidhair.ca in the past, and are still on Facebook and MySpace.

— and issue — for advertising is "dangerous."

Cameron, who opened Fluid Hair more than a decade ago, said the images are for catching attention and promoting discussion.

Grandfather leery of apology

► Tory hopeful Doug Griffiths says he was misquoted Sunday in discussing child welfare responsibilities

JEREMY NOLAIS
@METRONEWS.CA
METRO CANADA IN CALGARY

Claiming his comments were taken out of context, an Alberta Tory leadership hopeful called relatives of a murdered Calgary toddler yesterday to clear the air.

But the grandfather of 14-month-old Elizabeth Velasquez is attributing much of the conversation to political "back-talk."

Doug Griffiths came under fire Sunday following comments many attributed to the Velasquez case in which he claimed some responsibility for child welfare must fall on family members.

The 14-month-old died of asphyxiation last year and a report released last week suggested numerous systemic delays prevented social workers from taking custody of her in time.

Suspects in death

► Police have narrowed the suspect pool in the ongoing Elizabeth Velasquez homicide investigation to two suspects: Her mother and a male counterpart.

Griffiths said a question posed to him during the forum was based on over government responsibility in child welfare cases.

"If it had of been a question about that case, I would have had a totally different response ... there's no doubt that the department and the protocols that are in place let this family down."

Grandfather Bruce Anderson, who, along with wife Francisca, made concerns of possible abuse known to social workers two months before Velasquez's death, said the comments added another level of grief for his family.

Two men sought in jewelry store heist

Police are seeking two suspects in a jewelry store robbery at 101 Avenue and 101 Street last week.

The suspects left in a vehicle driven by a third suspect.

Irene lashes Quebec, Maritimes

► At least one person missing after post-tropical storm ► Forecasters warn of possible storm surges

The impact of post-tropical storm Irene left some 165,000 power customers in Quebec without electricity yesterday, while tens of thousands more in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia were also waiting for the lights to come back on.

The storm may also be to blame for a road collapse yesterday about 100 kilometres northeast of Montreal, where the resulting crevasse swallowed two cars and left authorities searching for a missing driver.

Early yesterday, the storm still packed a windy punch as it rolled through Eastern Canada — where it flooded roads, snapped trees and knocked out power. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Missing people

In Quebec, provincial police were searching yesterday for a motorist who disappeared after a landslide sent a chunk of road-way pummelled by the storm tumbling into the Yamaska River.

► Police spokesman Benoit Richard said the driver of one vehicle scrambled out to safety, as did one of the two occupants of the second car.

► Meanwhile, Quebec police said they were also looking for an 81-year-old man who vanished Sunday after leaving his cottage on foot during the storm.

► Fernande Simard, 92, looks at the damage caused to her neighbour's house after a 300-year-old tree was blown down by the remnants of Irene yesterday in Montreal.

Wife charged after man detects gas

A woman has been arrested after a man woke to the smell of gas in his home.

The 51-year-old man, a resident of Piney, Man., discovered his propane stove had been left on. While trying to get the gas to dissipate, it ignited and the man was slightly injured. The man then noted his common-law wife and all the pets were not in the home, and a vehicle was gone.

The man's 47-year-old wife was arrested the next day and charged with attempted murder.

Ottawa can't hide behind emails: Court

Ottawa has been told it has to cough up emails sought in a case involving aboriginal businesses or do a better job of justifying why it shouldn't.

In January 2010, Tribal Wi-Chi-Way-Win Capital Corp. asked Federal Court in Winnipeg to review an Aboriginal Affairs program that provides subsidies to banks.

The parties have been arguing over what should be admissible as evidence and Ottawa claims cabinet confidentiality for emails exchanged between civil servants.

But a Federal Court official has ruled that emails don't qualify and are admissible.

Happy Feet heads back home

The wayward emperor penguin dubbed Happy Feet craned his head and flapped his flippers as he started his journey home to cooler southern waters yesterday.

The penguin was moved from the Wellington Zoo in New Zealand, where staff has cared for him for the past two months, to the research ship Tangaroa, which will release him after four days at sea.

The Tangaroa is New Zealand's largest research vessel and was already scheduled to head into frigid southern waters to check on fish numbers in order to set fishing quotas.

Magna commits to electric

Magna International Inc. is spending $430 million to research and develop electric-vehicle technology in Ontario, a move that will create more than 700 jobs in the province.

Economic Development Minister Sandra Pupatello, who together with the company made the announcement yesterday, said the province will contribute $48 million to help fund 19 R&D projects over the next six years.

The projects include developing concept electric cars, parts for hybrid vehicles, metallic components, alternative energy and ways to improve fuel efficiency.

The province said the plan will also help protect about 1,300 jobs at Magna's factories.

"What powers our cars is changing, the pieces that go into making a vehicle are changing," Pupatello said.

Fortune teller worth a fortune?

The Gypsy sat for decades in a restaurant in the former Montana gold rush town of Virginia City, her unblinking gaze greeting the tourists. But until a few years ago, nobody, not even her owner, knew the machine gathering dust in Bob's Place was an undiscovered treasure.

Word got out when the Montana Heritage Commission began restoring the Gypsy more than five years ago, and collectors realized the machine was one of two or three "verbal" fortune tellers left in the world.

When functional, the machine could actually speak your fortune from a hidden record player.

One of those collectors, magician David Copperfield, said he thinks she is even rarer than that.

"I think it's only one," Copperfield said.

Theo Holstein, a California collector and renovator of such machines, said he wouldn't be surprised if

Deluded about our debt

► Being debt-free by age 55 won't just happen, experts say ► Most people that age are still paying

If experience is any indication, many Canadians could find themselves in debt years longer than they originally expected, according to a new poll issued yesterday by CIBC.

The poll, conducted for CIBC by Harris-Decima, reveals that, on average, Canadians holding some form of debt today feel they will be debt-free by age 55.

But the poll also found that only about 35 per cent of Canadians currently in the 55-to-64 age group — or just over a third — are actually debt-free.

"Paying down your debt is no different from having a plan to put money away for retirement ... You need a goal and a plan to get you there."

CHRISTINA KRAMER, CIBC

The findings appeared to hold true for all age groups polled.

For example, Canadians 25

► The passage of time alone is not enough to become debt-free — you need a plan.

to 34 on average told the pollsters they expected to be debt-free by age 44. However, the poll found that only 18 per cent of those now in the 45-to-54 age group were, in fact, debt-free.

"Being debt-free is a long-term financial goal for many Canadians," said Christina Kramer, executive vice-president, Retail Distribution and Channel Strategy, CIBC.

She notes, however, that this disparity between expectations and results suggests that Canadians need to remain focused on a debt repayment strategy.

"It can be tempting to believe that 10 years from now you will be better off financially and will have paid down your debt considerably, but the reality is that it takes a slow and steady approach to both debt management and savings to make progress towards your financial goals," Kramer said.

LAST CALL FOR SUMMER

SHE SAYS ...

JESSICA NAPIER
METRO

equinox sometime in mid-September, but we all know that the day after Labour Day is the unofficial end of the season. Next Tuesday means back to school and back to reality for those of us enjoying summer hours and vacant workplaces.

So how did your summer measure up? Have you appreciated each minute of daylight and every ray of sunshine? Probably not, but with seven days left you've still got some time to take advantage of Canada's favourite fleeting season. This week, try to do all five of these summertime activities — whether it's your first time or your one-thousandth time — before it's too late.

Enjoy a meal al-fresco: While the weather forecast is still bearable, indulge in a little open-air gastronomy. Take a seat on a sidewalk patio or pack a picnic for a nearby park or your own backyard. Sure, you'll be terrorized by wasps and ants, but that's just part of the fun.

"Wear white all week long because soon you'll have to say goodbye to those pale pieces and unpack your collection of flannel. Sure, you can try to get away with that eyelet sundress after Labour Day, but you know this age-old fashion faux pas won't go unnoticed."

Wear white: White dresses, white pants, white fedoras — in cotton, in linen, in silk. Wear white all week long because soon you'll have to say goodbye to those pale pieces and unpack your collection of flannel. Sure, you can try to get away with that eyelet sundress after Labour Day, but you know this age-old fashion faux pas won't go unnoticed.

Take a dip: Find the closest pool, lake or ocean and take the plunge — because nothing can compare to splash-splashing around in the great outdoors.

Get a pedicure: You'll be back in waterproof boots and practical (read: ugly) footwear soon enough, so if you're going to slip on sandals make sure you go out in style. Get buffed, clipped, filed and polished — for the sake of your own hygiene and for everyone who has to peek at those toes on display.

Ride a bike: Sure, there are hardy people who insist on peddling year-round, but for most of us, the idea of cycling through the city streets in a snowstorm is just insane. This week, take the opportunity to do some last-minute two-wheeling around your favourite trails before layers of leaves, ice and slush cover them up for months to come.

And so, the summer countdown is on. Only 10,080 minutes left to get outside and savour the season.

Letters

JACK LAYTON. Mr. Layton's funeral and the turnout of the massive number of people to mourn the death of a politician should be a wakeup to other politicians.

They need to ponder and ask themselves why would people in massive numbers come out to celebrate the life of a politician, during the time when the majority of Canadians don't find the profession to be appealing and they don't feel the urge to welcome politicians who knock at their doors during the election.

Mr. Layton's ability to bring people together during his funeral should be a hint of what Canadians desire from a political figure.

Looking at Mr. Layton's legacy and the massive number of people who have mourned his death, we learn that Canadians want an honest politician who is true to himself and who listens to people whether they are rich or poor.

Canadians want to see integrity in politicians — something which has been missing in today's politicians, who promise one thing during the election and then do something else.

WEIRD NEWS

They say money doesn't grow on trees, but it does fall from trucks ...

The fantasy of seeing banknotes fluttering down from the sky came true for Dutch motorists after a package containing cash apparently fell from a bank transport truck and broke open.

The incident triggered a dangerous scramble for the euro bills yesterday on the busy highway near Maastricht, in the Netherlands, as people parked cars on the road's shoulder and ran to scoop up loose notes.

Police in the southern Dutch province of Limburg confirmed in their Twitter feed "it briefly rained bank bills."

Reporter Rudy Bouma told national broadcaster NOS he saw people grabbing handfuls of cash before hopping back into their cars and driving away.

It was not clear how much cash was lost, or how it could have fallen from the truck.

Scene in brief

Michael Jackson's children and father visited the late pop star's boyhood home in Gary, Ind., as the town celebrated what would have been his 53rd birthday. Hundreds of fans took part in activities outside the house in Jackson Street over the weekend ahead of Jackson's birthday on Monday. Thirteen-year-old Paris Jackson told WLS-TV that she enjoyed seeing so many fans at the house when she and her brothers, 14-year-old Prince and 9-year-old Blanket, visited on Saturday. The Post-Tribune of Merrillville reports that Jackson's father Joe attended activities at the home on Sunday. The Jackson family moved from Indiana to California in 1969 after the Jackson 5 struck it big. Jackson died in June 2009.

► Lloyd Robertson has anchored the evening news in Canada through the terms of eight prime ministers.

Lloyd lays down his mic

► National News anchor set to wrap final newscast on Thursday ► At age 77, Robertson shuns the word 'retirement', and sets sights on new projects

It's a perfect summer day in August, and Lloyd Robertson seems almost relieved to be back at work.

The 77-year-old has entered the final stretch, and Thursday — when he is set to wrap his final newscast at the helm of CTV National News, thus ending the longest-ever reign of a North American national anchor — is looming.

But for now, Robertson is exactly where he wants to be, amid the buzz and swarm of CTV's hive of a news hub as he and his colleagues begin to stitch together the evening's nightly program.

"It's all (the viewers are) talking about," Robertson said in a recent interview, taking a brief break from the night's work. "When is the day? 'When are you stepping down?' 'Retirement.'"

"Only, I try to steer them away from the word 'retirement,' because I'm still going to be doing things. ... I intend to be around for a while."

So Robertson won't be stopping, at least not entirely. He'll contribute to CTV's flagship news magazine series W5 and has a series of vignettes on determined young people to lead into next year's Olympics.

But it's clear that stepping away from the anchor's chair will still feel like the end of something significant to Robertson.

After all, he has anchored the evening news in this country through the terms of eight Canadian prime ministers and eight U.S. presidents. He's covered three Olympic Games held within our borders. He's reported on the moon landing, on Terry Fox's Marathon of Hope, on the fall of the Berlin wall, on the death of Princess Diana and on the terrorist attacks of 9-11.

That sort of prominent longevity is impossibly rare in the TV business nowadays, said CTV's chief political correspondent Craig Oliver.

"When he and I started in television, there were just two channels," said Oliver, a friend of Robertson's since they were colleagues at CBC in the '60s.

"He's the last of a breed of really high-profile, influential anchors."

THE CANADIAN PRESS

A life in the limelight

► Growing up in Stratford, Ont., Robertson was fascinated with broadcasting as early as his pre-teen years. He aspired to work for the local radio station, CJCS, finally achieving his goal after graduating high school.

► Robertson moved up the ladder quickly. He was only 20 when he went to work for CBC and 22 when he married his high school sweetheart, Nancy. The couple bounced from Winnipeg to Ottawa to Toronto, starting a family along the way.

► In 1970, he claimed the anchor position at CBC's The National. It was, of course, a dream gig for a broadcast news hound but before long, Robertson began feeling restricted. In those days, a complicated union relationship meant that TV anchors weren't allowed any editorial input into the words they were reading.

► Robertson's frustration eventually led to his then-shocking decision to move to CTV, a choice that chewed him up at the time.

► Robertson flourished at CTV. Beginning as a co-anchor with Harvey Kirck, Robertson rejoiced in the increased creative control he was afforded, and ratings swiftly rose (Robertson takes pride in pointing out that CTV National News has become the country's top-rated national newscast).

The Conspirator

Genre: Drama

Director: Robert Redford

Stars: Robin Wright, James McAvoy, Tom Wilkinson

Robert Redford's Sundance Film Festival preaches the virtue of storytelling: find a topic, no matter how small, and make it come alive on the screen.

He seems to have forgotten this mantra while directing The Conspirator, his handsome but largely inert drama about American justice — or lack thereof — following the 1865 assassination of U.S. president Abraham Lincoln.

In focusing on Mary Surratt, the sole woman charged and tried in connection with the crime, the storyteller yields to the historian within Redford's complicated cranium, and also to the lecturer that made his earlier antiwar polemic Lions for Lambs laughably didactic. He gives us history preserved in aspic. But the film provides little sense of the human drama. Redford seeks clarity, but only for the mind, not the heart.

In a Better World

Genre: Drama

Director: Susanne Bier

Stars: Mikael Persbrandt, Trine Dyrholm, Markus Rygaard

🌐🌐 ½ The disconnect between divine intentions and flawed humanity fuels the films of Denmark's Susanne Bier (Brothers, After the Wedding). With In a Better World, this year's Oscar winner for Best Foreign Language Film, she fits new pieces into the violent puzzle that is man.

Split between peaceful Denmark and battle-scarred Kenya, the film plays almost as biblical proverb, as two humanist fathers struggle to teach their own challenged morality to their troubled sons.

In a Better World brilliantly dramatizes the vexing problem of trying to do right in a world of situational ethics. ● PETER HOWELL

Brad Pitt has been playing heroes for so long that it must just come naturally to him now.

The actor reportedly jumped in to rescue a woman from being trampled on the set of his latest film, World War Z, currently filming in Scotland, according to the Scottish Sun.

Pitt's rescue attempt happened during a dangerous scene involving 700 panicking extras.

"I don't think she could believe it when Brad picked her up," a source says. "He didn't have time to speak to her as it was mid-shoot. But she said afterward how grateful she was, despite having a badly-grazed knee." ● METRO

Beyoncé's baby causing delays

Beyoncé's pregnancy, which she proudly announced at the VMAs Sunday night, is reportedly already causing schedule issues at work for the singer and actress.

Beyoncé is signed up to star in a remake of a Star is Born directed by Clint Eastwood, a project Warner Bros. was hoping to get into production by February, according to Deadline. But that start date is off the table now that the film's leading lady is expecting a child.

The good news, though, is that it gives Eastwood more time to find a leading man for Beyoncé, since first choice Leonardo DiCaprio isn't interested.

Other names mentioned include Will Smith and Christian Bale.

Shia LaBeouf + Marilyn Manson equals craziness

Shia LaBeouf had trouble keeping his drink in his mouth recently while out with friends in L.A., even making shock-rocker Marilyn Manson grow concerned, according to Life & Style.

"Shia picked up a water bottle and shot a mouthful of water all over his date's legs. Then he put more water in his mouth and started spitting it all over his table-mates, including Marilyn Manson," a source says.

Manson reportedly tried to calm the Transformers star down, but "all of a sudden, Shia started shouting at his date and getting visibly angry."

LaBeouf then shot from his seat and forced his way out of the club, his date soon following. "Marilyn looked shocked and annoyed, but stayed seated," the source says. ● METRO ► Got fat? Evidence shows that carrying extra weight doesn't necessarily result in poor health.

CELIA MILNE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Not all obese people need to lose weight.

Evidence is mounting that obesity alone is not necessarily a predictor of bad health.

"It is important to realize that weight does not equal health," says Dr. Jennifer Kuk, an assistant professor in York University's school of kinesiology and health science.

In a recent study, Dr. Kuk and colleagues compared the health status of 6,000 obese Americans with 23,000 thinner people.

They found that obese people with no physical or psychological limitations had about the same risk of death as lean people, and were actually less likely to die from heart disease.

Obesity only becomes risky when it is accompanied by factors such as high blood pressure, high cholesterol, high blood sugar and depression, they found.

"Obese people should go to their doctor to be evaluated," Dr. Kuk told Metro.

"If their doctor finds that they are healthy other than an elevated body weight, then this research suggests that they should focus on a healthy diet with regular physical activity as opposed to weight loss," says Dr. Kuk.

Earlier studies have found that trying and failing to lose weight could be detrimental to some people's health.

How do doctors assess which obese people need to lose weight?

A tool developed at the University of Alberta, called the Edmonton Obesity Staging System (EOSS), shows your doctor whether you have obesity-related risk factors and therefore require some type of treatment or surgery.

"BMI only measures how big you are — not how sick you are," says Canadian Obesity Network founder Dr. Arya Sharma, who developed the EOSS.

Vaccines largely safe

► New review analyzes everything from flu shots to chickenpox

Vaccines can cause certain side effects, but serious ones appear very rare — and there's no link with autism and Type 1 diabetes, the Institute of Medicine says in the first comprehensive safety review in 17 years.

The report released Thursday isn't aimed at nervous parents. And the side effects it lists as proven are some that doctors long have known about, such as fever-caused seizures and occasional brain inflammation.

Instead, the review comes at the request of the government's Vaccine Injury Compensation Program, which pays damages to people who are injured by vaccines. Federal law requires this type of independent review as officials update side effects on that list to be sure they agree with the latest science.

"Vaccines are important tools in preventing serious infectious disease across the lifespan, from infancy through adulthood. All health-care interventions, however, carry the possibility of risk and vaccines are no exception," said pediatrician and bioethicist Dr. Ellen Wright Clayton of Vanderbilt University, who chaired the institute panel.

Still, the report stresses that vaccines generally are safe, and it may help doctors address worries from a small but vocal anti-vaccine movement.

"I am hopeful that it will allay some people's concerns," Clayton said.

There's suggestive evidence but not proof of side effects, including anaphylaxis from the human papillomavirus — or HPV vaccine — and short-term joint pain in some women and children from the MMR vaccine.

The report cleared flu shots of blame for two long-suspected side effects: Bell's palsy and worsening of asthma.

That doesn't mean there aren't other side effects — the review couldn't find enough evidence to decide about more than 100 other possibilities.

NEW HOPE FOR HAIR LOSS Laser Hair Therapy

USING TLP™

TLP™ IS A "NEW" NON-SURGICAL SCIENTIFIC APPROACH FOR MEN AND WOMEN TO HELP CONTROL THINNING HAIR, BALDNESS AND PROBLEMS ASSOCIATED WITH THE SCALP.

This cold laser creates a soft halo of light around the scalp. Laser hair therapy is a medically tested, safe and proven method using low level laser energy, or "soft cold" laser light to effectively treat and control problem hair loss and encourage new growth.

WILL IT WORK FOR ME?

Laser Therapy is equally effective for both men and women. Most participants will see tangible response within a short period of time after commencing treatment, with results enhanced as the program continues. In fact, past studies have shown a 53% increase in hair among the respondents using Cold Laser Therapy. For those clients not able to come to our clinic on a regular basis, a home laser program is available.

During your initial consultation and assessment, it will be determined if you are a good candidate for Laser Therapy. If so, your results are assured and backed by our exclusive guarantee.

PLAYING HOUSE TOO QUICKLY?

My boyfriend and I went through a rough patch recently. We broke up and I moved out, but we're still into each other and haven't dated other people. We recently decided that it was worth trying to deal with things together as a couple and we both see a future together despite our issues. I'm really happy, but I'm afraid of moving back in together down the road and falling into our old patterns. Any advice?
Rough Patch

Andrea: Dear old-new girlfriend,

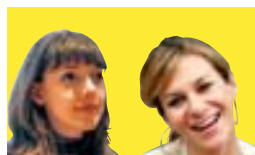

It sounds like moving out did you some good.

Sometimes we get a little crazy when we fall in love and play house a little too quickly.

Reclaiming your own life again can be a healthy experience by giving you a broader perspective when dealing with emotionally intense issues.

It's encouraging to see a couple go through that and

Unless you two have a real hard time dating, it illustrates that you have a choice in the matter; thereby giving you some responsibility and some power to make decisions.

Use that power: take your time until you feel sure about where you want to take the relationship and how you want to live.

Don't move back in until you feel that all the major issues have been dealt with and that you can deal with future ones.

Breakups are never easy, and sometimes they happen in chapters.

First comes the I-cannot-wait-to-get-away-from-him chapter.

Then the I'm-so-lonely-I-could-die-maybe-he-wasn't-that-bad chapter, which is often followed by the oops-did-we-just-do-that-again chapter, which sometimes leads to where you are right now. Does any of this sound familiar?

If not, and if you're sure you're not seeking each other out because you're lonely or scared, my advice is to follow my sister's advice: take your time, talk about what went wrong and about how you both plan to tackle it.

Facing your issues together is beautiful and brave. Take it slowly, and enjoy the makeup sex.

Salmon Tomato Cups

THE CANADIAN PRESS/HO

Ingredients:

- 6 campari tomatoes
- 2 cans (each 170 g) skinless boneless salmon, drained and flaked
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) sour cream or light sour cream
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) dried oregano
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) kalamata black olives, pitted and chopped

As we greet the local tomato crop, here is a wonderful recipe for luncheons or light suppers. This rendition uses campari tomatoes, which are larger than cherry and yet smaller than field tomatoes. If they're not available, choose smaller field varieties.

or a small melon baller to form tomato cups. Set aside.

2 In a medium bowl, blend salmon, sour cream, oregano and kalamata olives.

3 Mound salmon into tomato cups and serve by themselves or over mixed greens, if desired.

► The Greenhouse offers an extensive salad menu of gourmet eats at affordable prices ► Pair one of its delicious salads with a unique soup

LUNCH RUSH

CHRISTOPHER THRALL
FOOD@METRONEWS.CA

Tucked at the back of a Good Earth Café, the Greenhouse's extensive salad menu was as inspiring as the aroma drifting up from a warm tureen of white chocolate mushroom soup.

My favourite part of the soup-and-salad combo

($12) was the trail mix scattered throughout the chickpeas and edamame.

Cool, tender strips of beef and crisp mixed greens wove together under balsamic vinaigrette.

The soup was exquisite: rich, creamy and not as sweet as I expected. It was loaded with mushrooms and delivered a caramel aftertaste.

I paired my meal with a bottle of cold Greenhouse water ($1.75) since our chef simply waved us towards Good Earth for anything else. The partnership makes sense.

The Greenhouse upset everything I figured about salad bars: annoying and full of fussy vegans. Instead, my meal was fulfilling yet calorically kind. I'd go back — frequently — and recommend it.

Take a cold, hard look at your funds

ON MONEY

ALISON GRIFFITHS
MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

Last week an e-ton of questions landed in my email regarding my column on using morningstar.ca to evaluate and learn about your mutual funds.

Many of you had difficulty navigating the site and locating your funds.

First of all, it ain't you! There's definitely a bit of a learning curve.

If the closest you've ever come to your mutual funds is when you picked them in the first place, with or without the help of an advisor, then the relationship needs a bit of work.

Reader Evan had trouble finding Acuity Canadian Small Cap. So here's the drill.

Go to morningstar.ca. Near the top there's a line of tabs. Click on Funds. In the middle of the page you'll see a Tools menu. Choose Fund Lookup.

"Time is money so spend a few minutes to find out if your mutual fund is good, bad or a real barker."

-ALISON'S MONEY RULE

► Unlock the mystery of your mutual funds.

Type your fund in the box titled, Enter Fund Name.

Note: Sometimes, the abbreviated name on an investment statement (such as your RRSP) will not match how it is listed.

If the browser can't locate the fund, choose Sponsor Name instead of fund name and scroll through the (often long) list of funds that appear. Sponsor, in Evan's case, would be Acuity.

I typed in Acuity Canadian Small Cap and up popped another window.

Click on the fund name — sometimes there are a couple of options, so choose yours, then click View Quicktake Reports.

Oh dear. Who let the dogs out? What appears is a thumbnail of the fund including, right at the top, a single star out of five.

That means Morningstar rates this fund as a pooch.

In the graph a blue line shows the fund has underperformed others in its category and its benchmark index for the past three years.

Below the graph is a performance chart.

Don't worry about all the numbers, just look at "% Rank in Category" — one per cent being the top and 100 per cent being the bottom. A little counterintuitive, I know.

Acuity Canadian Small Cap is 51, 92 and 96 for one, three and five years — sub-par in spades.

GO TO ALISONGRIFFITHS.CA TO FIND LAST WEEK'S COLUMN, OR SEARCH MY NAME ON THE METRO SITE, AND NEXT WEEK I'LL SHOW YOU HOW TO FIND TOP PERFORMING FUNDS.

STOP COMPLAINING ABOUT TUITION AND START WORKING

FUN AND FRUGAL

LESLEY SCORGIE
MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

School is expensive. I get it! I paid my way through a four year undergraduate degree and an MBA by working throughout both programs. Was it worth the sleepless nights and $100,000 investment? Yes.

My education has given me opportunities that I wouldn't have otherwise had. I'm passionate about my work and earn good money.

Seventy-five per cent of future jobs will require education. Certainly there are very successful people in North America without it. But this phenomenon is becoming less common because the corporate cultural norm has changed: education is critical.

Stop complaining about the costs. The short term pain of large tuition bills pales in comparison to your long-term income gains. According to the National Graduates Survey (Statistics Canada), your long-term income-earning ability is up to a million dollars greater than a high school graduate's when you invest in post-secondary education. Plus, your quality of life and career opportunities are greater.

If you're struggling to cover the tuition tab, get a job. Apply for paid co-op, internship and work experience programs related to your field of study. These opportunities are posted on employer and career centres' websites. Aim for full-time work in the summer and a part-time arrangement while you're in school. Sound boring? Spice it up with an over-seas work term.

While classes are in session, work on or near campus. Your faculty, the libraries, restaurants, stores and fitness centres need staff. If you're feeling entrepreneurial, turn your hobbies into money: photography, writing, web design, etc. Apply for scholarships, bursaries and income assistance through the campus registrar's office or library.

Student debt is often unavoidable. But, by working throughout and saving up your income, you can significantly offset the costs of tuition. This will give you greater financial flexibility after graduation. Plus, working is a great way to meet friends and grow your professional experience. Whatever you do, ensure you've got sufficient time to focus on your studies.

POPQUIZ

I keep reading news about a slowdown in the US economy — should I sell my investments?

A: Money in America? Is that an oxymoron?

B: You should invest! You can't get the ups without going through the downs.

Sports in brief

Michael Vick is really back on top now.

Vick and the Philadelphia Eagles agreed on a six-year contract yesterday that again makes the Pro Bowl quarterback one of the highest-paid players in the NFL.

A source familiar with the negotiations told The Associated Press the deal is worth $100 million US, including about $40 million guaranteed. The person spoke to the AP on condition of anonymity because terms weren't released.

Sharapova survives scare

► After dropping first set and nearly blowing lead in second, Russian star wins her match

Maria Sharapova's slow start almost turned into an early exit at the U.S. Open.

The three-time major champion picked up her game in time to avoid an upset against 102nd-ranked Heather Watson, rallying for a 3-6, 7-5, 6-3 victory yesterday in the opening round.

After being thoroughly outplayed in the first set, third-seeded Sharapova let a 4-1 lead in the second slip, as well. She shored things up at 5-all in the second to pull out that set. She also led 4-1 in the third, but gave back a break. After that, Sharapova broke right back then served out her match against the 19-year-old Brit, who was making her first appearance in the main draw at Flushing Meadows.

Sharapova improved to 12-0 this year in third sets.

"In the end, that's kind of where it counts," she said after a match that lasted two hours, 34 minutes. "No matter how tired or whether you're playing your best tennis or sometimes your worst, you keep fighting for it."

Not showing the same kind of fight was fifth-seeded Petra Kvitova, who became the first reigning Wimbledon champion to lose in the first round of the U.S. Open. She made 52 unforced errors in a 7-6 (3), 6-3 loss to Alexandra Dul-

"Consistency at the end helped me get through the match."

MARIA SHARAPOVA

gheru and has won only two matches since hoisting the trophy at the All-England Club last month.

"After I made some mistakes, I was mentally down," Kvitova said.

Last year's U.S. Open and Wimbledon runner-up, second-seeded Vera Zvonareva, defeated Stephanie Foretz Gacon of France, 6-3, 6-0.

Other women's winners included No. 13 Peng Shuai, No. 19 Julia Goerges and No. 27 Lucie Safarova.

The early headliner for the men was American Mardy Fish, who at No. 8 is the highest-ranked U.S. player in the tournament.

Fish lived up to his billing, opening his stay at Flushing Meadows with a 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 victory over Tobias Kamke of Germany.

The 29-year-old from Los Angeles opened the match by losing his serve, but that turned out to be the only hiccup. He is one of 14 American men entered in the U.S. Open, as the host country continues the quest to find its next great champion. No U.S. man has won a major since Andy Roddick won in New York in 2003.

Manning activated, but questions remain

The Indianapolis Colts activated Peyton Manning from the physically unable to perform list yesterday, clearing the way for the four-time MVP to play early in the season.

The team said Manning will participate in practice on a limited, "scripted" and controlled basis as he continues to recover from neck surgery he underwent in May.

It's not clear whether Manning will be ready for the Sept. 11 opener at Houston. Manning has already ruled himself out of Thursday night's pre-season finale at Cincinnati.

Manning has started 227 consecutive games, including the playoffs, the second-longest streak in NFL history for quarterbacks behind Brett Favre.

Indy's franchise quarterback had been on PUP since practice began Aug. 1. League rules require players on the physically unable to perform list to be activated by the team's final cuts, on Sept. 3, or sit out an additional six weeks. That wasn't something the Colts were going to do.

Sports in brief

Woods plans to play in fall PGA event

GOLF. Tiger Woods will play the Frys.com Open in California the first week of October, his first time competing in the PGA Tour's Fall Series as he tries to get his game ready for the Presidents Cup.

The Frys.com Open is

Oct. 6-9 at CordeValle Golf Club, about 45 minutes south of his alma mater at Stanford.

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Make an effort to sort out problems with loved ones, especially those that involve money and possessions.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Someone in a position of authority will look kindly on you today.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Anything of a creative nature will go well today, but it will go even better if you involve loved ones.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 The Someone interesting is about to come into your life. Don't look down and pretend you don't see.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 You may think it's best to go with the flow but is that the right attitude? You were born to make things happen.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 It's not like you to be impulsive but you may overreact a bit today.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 If you are determined to transform your life — and you should be — start making changes immediately.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Don't be discouraged if something does not work out the way you want it to today.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Fix your sights on your most important goals and don't stop until you have reached them.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Good things will come at you today from all directions. Enjoy each and every one of them.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Someone you think of as a friend is secretly jealous of your success and plotting against you.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Don't be hasty when you make decisions today. SALLY BROMPTON
